General Court Meets in Final State Tercentenary Observance

The Massachusetts General Court, called into special session by proclamation of Gov. Frank G. Allen, met Monday, Oct. 20th in observance of the Commonwealth's tercentenary. This special session marked the last of the state's official observances of its 300th anniversary.

More than 1,000 persons, including 400 former members of the legislature gathered in the chamber of the House of Representatives. The exercises were opened by Gaspar G. Bacon, president of the State Senate. Leverett Saltonstall, speaker of the House, and Governor Allen delivered short addresses.

Hon. Arthur P. Rugg, chief justice of the Mass. Supreme Court delivered the Tercentenary oration. A complete history of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, the charter granted the colony by Charles I, then King of England, and the works of the General Court from its first meeting were discussed by Chief Justice Rugg in an address that lasted nearly an hour.

The history of education in the Commonwealth, the formation of the first operations and the first statutes bettering the conditions under which the laborer worked were discussed by the chief justice. At the conclusion of Chief Justice Rugg's address the convention dissolved. A buffet luncheon for the members of the legislature and their guests was served, and prior to the closing of the special session, a reception was held in the hall of flags at the state house.

Fall Meeting of Brotherhoods at Nash's Mills

The Fall meeting of the Franklin County Federation of Church Brotherhoods and Men's clubs was held at the First Congregational church at Nash's Mills Tuesday evening for business session 253 from the affiliated organizations were present. Rev. Harvey M. Eastman of the Congregational church of Slatersville, R. I., who formerly held a pastorate in Colrain and attended Mt. Hermon School, was guest speaker. His subject was "Five Steps and a Stumble."

The first step dealt with the history of fire from its mere discovery to the extraordinary uses to which it has been put to work for the sake of modern science and art. Its origin was from an accident, according to Rev. Eastman, from volcanic substance which lead to the immediate practice of cooking food and other uses, common today. Step number two brought back the days when man discovered that a circular object rolled. This developed into the construction of wheels, which have placed transportation in its present cosmopolitan position.

The system of communication marked the third step. Printing, from the stone age, through the papyrus and stylus era the vast importance which it plays in the world of today, was historically traced by Rev. Eastman. Step four brought in the topic of religion or worship and the part it has played in the world's history. The fifth step, which has developed into the stumble, was democracy. That democracy was and is not pure in America was argued against with the following demerits: First, the country's greatest record for illiteracy; second, America's great crime record; and third, America's faulty war preparations.

Other speakers of the evening were F. Raymond Andrews who told of the growth of Camp Wiyaka and Rev. William S. Anderson, who gave a brief summarization on the prospective repeal of the Volstead act which will be approved or disapproved at the coming election.

Rev. George K. Carter, host of the evening, gave a brief history of the First Congregational church. Prayer was offered by Rev. Pattison of Northfield and benediction by Rev. W. S. Anderson.

Willard A. Haskell, president of the organization, presided over the meeting. H. G. Sellar acted as secretary in the absence of Rollin J. Farr. A supper was served preceding the meeting by the ladies of the church in the parish house.

SAFETY SLOGANS IN REVERSE

Be always prompt to rush into a law suit. Very often many of the matters taken to the court could be settled in a few minutes outside of court at far less cost, but then it is quite an experience to have a law suit and hire a lawyer and waste a lot of time in court.

Oilly cloths used for polishing floors and furniture should be thrown in the corner of the closet or under the stairway. Of course it is quite likely that spontaneous combustion will result and the house be set fire and burned down, but most well regulated households these days have more or less insurance. The possibility of fire from this cause is made very remote when oily rags are stored in tin cans or containers, but this is some trouble.

Rev. F. W. Pattison Will End Pastorate Dec. 31

At an adjourned meeting of the Trinitarian Congregational Church Wednesday evening to act upon the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Francis W. Pattison, a communication from him was read stating clearly his position, despite overtures that had been made to him to reconsider and leaving but on course for the people to follow, viz., to allow him to terminate his pastorate December 31. The following resolution was offered and adopted:

"WHEREAS the Rev. Francis W. Pattison for fifteen years the minister of the Trinitarian Congregational Church of Northfield, Mass., has tendered his resignation of this pastorate, in which his labors have been characterized by unremitting devotion to the needs, not only of this congregation, but the community at large, and

"WHEREAS this Church cherishes the memory of these years of faithful service, recalling with gratitude the many and varied circumstances in which it has been rendered, and recalling that our Pastor has ever been among those who have sought the betterment of conditions, physical, social and spiritual, in our community, and like our Master, has lived amongst us as one who serves—

"Be it Resolved that we accept this resignation with sentiments of deep regret that the association of the years is to be terminated, and that we record our sense of abiding gratitude for the gracious ministry rendered in our behalf."

Following the adoption of this resolution, another was offered, as follows, and adopted.

"Be it Resolved that as an expression of gratitude we extend in full the present stipend for six months from the date when the resignation becomes effective; i. e., from Dec. 31, 1930 to June 30, 1931.

"And be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the Rev. Francis W. Pattison as an expression of our affectionate esteem, and that they be spread upon the records of this Church."

A Breach of Promise Case

For some time, it is alleged, a prominent citizen of this town has paid attention to a young and beautiful widow of the community; forgetting or at last not heeding the advice of the immortal Mr. Weller to his son, Samuel, to "Beware of Widows."

He now claims that he was not serious in his attentions, and that he was not attached to her. Be that as it may, the widow became attached to him, and as he now seems to have lost interest in the affair she has attached his property, which is a kind of attachment he does not appreciate. The result is that he now finds himself defendant in a first-class breach of promise suit, and his questionable attitude will be given an airing in the near future.

In her declaration filed by her attorney, E. V. Newton of Worcester the Plaintiff states that on divers and numerous occasions the Defendant called at her place of abode; that he gave her to understand that his affections were hers, and promised to marry her; the same constituting a valid contract.

In his answer the Defendant enters a general denial. Section two states that at no time was the Plaintiff given to understand that he, the defendant aforesaid, desired to marry her; that his remarks have been fully, maliciously and wantonly misconstrued and perverted. Furthermore he asks damages be awarded him for defamation of character.

The parties involved are so prominent that it is feared no court room would hold the number delirious of hearing the evidence, so the trial will be held in Northfield Town Hall, Monday evening, October 27, under the auspices of the Northfield Brotherhood, to whose Sick Fund the proceeds will be devoted.

The committee having the affair in charge has engaged E. V. Newton of the Newton Entertainment Bureau of Worcester personally to conduct the trial, and there is sure to be fun without limit.

The following is the make up of the court: Judge, Herbert E. Buffum; Clerk, Roy Flanders; Plaintiff, Mrs. George N. Kidder; Defendant, Dr. Richard G. Holton; Plaintiff's attorney, E. V. Newton of Worcester; Defendant's attorney, Richard L. Watson; Officers, Harry M. Haskell, Theodore Darby, Clarence Griggs, Crier, Theodore Darby. Witnesses: Mrs. A. H. Wright, Miss Evelyn Haskell, Louis Webster, Willis Parker, Philip Porter, Jurors: Dan Bodley, foreman, Harold Bigelow, Albert Irish, Philip Mann, Mrs. Fred S. Merrifield, Bert Newton, Francis Reed, R. Shearer, Mrs. Ross Spencer, Mrs. George T. Thompson, Lester White, and Lewis Wood.

Dr. Pierce President of Farren Staff

At the annual meeting of the staff of the Farren Memorial hospital, held in their rooms on Thursday, the following officers were chosen: Dr. Willard H. Pierce, president; Dr. Reynolds of Athol, vice-president and Dr. Dr. John Collier, South Deerfield, secretary and treasurer. Performing the meeting, the Sisters of the hospital tendered the staff a dinner, which was much enjoyed.

Hodous-Erickson

The marriage of Miss Rachel Hodous, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Lewis Hodous of Hartford and Mr. Harry A. Erickson of Mount Hermon and Brockton, Massachusetts took place last Saturday at 3:30 in the chapel of the Immanuel Congregational Church of Hartford. The Rev. Fletcher D. Parker performed the ceremony, assisted by the bride's father. The double ring service was used. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother Frederick, wore a gown of ivory satin. Her tulle veil fell from a cap caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bride was attended by Miss Betty Brown of Riverside, Connecticut as the maid of honor. Miss Miriam Webster of West Hartford, former room mate of the bride at Mount Holyoke, was the bridesmaid. Both attendants wore gowns and hats of apricot chiffon and carried apricot sweet peas.

Mr. E. W. Erickson of Washington, D. C., was his brother's best man. The ushers were Mr. Lester P. White and Mr. Paul A. Williams, both of Mount Hermon. Mr. Carlton W. L'Honniedieu, Organist at Mount Hermon School, played the wedding music.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College in the class of 1928, and received her A. M. the following year. Mr. Erickson graduated from Mount Hermon, and then from Yale in 1924. He later received his A. M. from Harvard.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at Mount Hermon, where Mr. Erickson is a member of the English Department.

County Meeting Of W. C. T. U. Held

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Franklin County met for its Annual Meeting in the First Methodist church, in Greenfield Oct. 14th. Morning speakers were Rev. Mary Andrew Conner of Northfield and Mrs. Lewis Ansel Gridley of Springfield secretary of the committee Against Repeals. Mrs. Minnie L. Morgan of Northfield was re-elected president and other officers chosen for the coming year were Mrs. L. R. Smith, Northfield, vice-president; Mrs. Ella Bitters, Greenfield, secretary; Mrs. Overing, Orange, treasurer and Mrs. Lon Nelson, Bernardston, auditor. Greetings were extended the visiting members by Rev. Margaret B. Barnard. Mrs. Jessie L. Leonard of Winthrop, motion picture director, was the principal afternoon speaker, taking for her topic, "Citizenship Plus."

Mrs. Conner presented a survey in which she endeavored to show how railroads of this country, express companies, really men and insurance companies are "falling into line" in the enforcement of the 18th amendment and the consequent downfall of the bootlegger. Early in the opening of her address, she urged her audience not to be "clouded" by the wet element in the east. "Everyone in the United States who stands for community betterment," she said, "is standing by the government. Because conditions are much worse in the east as she pointed out, she especially stressed the need of courage for ultimate success.

"Most of the leading lines of evidence," she said in speaking of liquor conditions, "point to two states in the east." The speaker was applauded when she said, "I regret that a man who occupies so high position as Mr. Morrow, should come from a state so saturated with whiskey consciousness that he can not see above it and know he's on the wrong track." "Fine people" have been won over to the other side by their environment," Mrs. Conner told her audience, and added, "for you can't live in a London fog and enjoy New England sunshine."

"Most of the stuff we are getting in our daily papers is wet propaganda," she continued. "I wish I could get a list of the papers in this country which are controlled by the wets. And people get their impressions from what they read," the speaker declared.

Mrs. Conner looks to see New York mistaken in its "attitude that it runs the country." She gave examples of the progress of enforcement in the various branches of industry given above and said she believes New York is making progress in the process; of "cleaning up."

In concluding, Mrs. Conner urged support of President Hoover who she "pities beyond expression." She paid a tribute to him "as one of the finest men the United States has ever produced, who has been caught in the mesh of present conditions, economic and wet."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Morgan and the opening song service was led by Mrs. Clara B. Alexander. Mrs. Gridley outlined plans in which "Vote No" cards will be sent into the homes. Devotions were led by Mrs. N. Fay Smith and Mrs. Dix and Mrs. M. E. Vorce and her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Addison, presented a short skit, written by Mrs. Morgan, on "Putting the No in November." Rev. Verne Smith opened the afternoon program with devotions. There was music and skits presented by the Northfield and Bernardston unions.

A CARD

I wish to thank the fire department, neighbors and all, who assisted at the recent fire which destroyed buildings I owned. MRS. FRED ADAMS.

De Mar Guest Speaker at Brotherhood Supper

The October business meeting and supper of the Northfield Brotherhood occurred last Tuesday evening. Clarence DeMar, American Marathon runner, gave the address of the evening. Mr. DeMar, whose trade is that of a printer and who is now teaching at the Keene, N. H., Normal School, gave an unusually wise and humorous address on the trials and triumphs of the marathon runner. The general theme was "Common Sense As Applied to Marathon Running," the rules for which, he said, were applicable to the race of human life.

"The success of the run," he declared, "is altogether due to the way in which he prepares himself for the race to the amount of running he does between races and the other training he gives himself." In his own practice DeMar runs 60 miles a week.

Men and women, DeMar believes, are growing more and more tolerant and broad minded, and can see other people's points of view and accept their methods of doing things a great deal more readily than they used to. "The most intolerant creatures that the runner meets," he said, are dogs. They cannot see why anyone should run when he can walk, they always try to obstruct the course and stop the race.

Clarence DeMar was a resident of the town of Warwick for a short period in 1899, which fact he referred to, stating that in visiting Northfield he was again near his former home. He has won 18 marathon races in addition to a number of minor running contests.

P. T. A. Holds Meeting

The Parent-Teacher Association held a very successful meeting at the town hall last Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and the business session during which the president, Mrs. Charles Mayberry presided, was interesting and the questions were well discussed. Among other motions carried it was voted to send Mrs. Louis Smith of Mt. Hermon as delegate to the state convention to be held in Boston the last of the month. It was also voted that the association bear the expense of the follow-up work of the school nurse, among the pre-school children who were examined at the well-child conference. After the business meeting, Miss Erhardt, chairman of the program committee introduced Dr. A. H. Wright, and Mrs. Lilly, school physician and nurse, who spoke on their work. Following their talk, a demonstration of aesthetic dancing was given by a class of girls under the direction of Miss Nellie Cummings of Greenfield, which was generously applauded. Refreshments of Halloween nature were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. Chapin. Mrs. Ware and Mrs. Sumner in the dining-room, which was decorated artistically with Halloween novelties.

The next meeting will be held in Camp hall, Mt. Hermon on Nov. 20. The Gill Community club will hold a Halloween party for the members and their families on the evening of October 30 in the town hall. A small admission fee will be charged. Miss Lucille Erhardt, teacher of the Sunnyside school, spent the weekend in Boston and attended the Army and Harvard game.

Many hunters are in the woods and game is plentiful. One marksman secured four squirrels in a short time Monday morning.

Collector R. L. Watson will be at the town hall next Friday between the hours of 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. to relieve taxes due at this time.

It may not be known to our readers that Mr. F. A. Browning of Rowe, who has announced that he will run for the legislature from this District on tickets at the forthcoming election, is also well known throughout this region as a writer of verse. Mr. Browning ran for the legislature in 1926 on a platform of greater attention to the needs of the people, especially in what is known as welfare work. He emphasizes these points in his present campaign. The following poem was written by him exclusively for the Northfield Press.

HILLS OF FRANKLIN

(By F. A. Browning)
Let us strive with all our might,
For humanity and right.
Let us pray to God alone,
That he'll roll away the stone,
From our manhood's littleness;
Make us whole in His likeness;
And, when labor is complete,
Let us rest at His dear feet.

Him who died that we might live;
Him, who dared the cross, the grave,
Thou, to follow men of peace,
He might give a sweet release
From all care and earthly strife;
Give to man eternal life.
Then, when deeds a life fulfill,
Such may rest neath Franklin's Hills.
October 13, 1930. Rowe, Mass.

QUOTATIONS

The October day is a dream, bright and beautiful as the rainbow, and as brief and fugitive. The same clouds and the same sun may be with us on the morrow, but the rainbow will have gone. —H. Gibson.
He is a fool who sees only the mischiefs that are past.—Bryant.

Greenfield Man Elected Head of Valley Conference

Edgar Burr Smith of Greenfield was elected president of the Connecticut Valley conference of Unitarian churches held at First Unitarian church Sunday and attended by about 300 delegates from 17 churches in the valley.

Niles W. Goward of Springfield was elected first vice-president and George L. Sprague of Holyoke, second vice-president. Other officers chosen were: Secretary, Mrs. Chauncey C. Manning of Plainfield, Conn., and treasurer, John C. Lee of Greenfield.

In connection with the valley conference there were sessions of the Western Federation of Young People's Religious unions and of the Women's Associate alliances. One of the principal addresses of the day was that given by Miss Annie M. Filton, dean of Tuckerham School at Boston in which she strongly recommended that a salaried supervisor be selected by the churches for the Sunday Schools.

Sessions of the conferences opened in the afternoon with Prof. C. H. Patterson of Amherst as presiding officer, Rev. Mary Andrews Connor, wife of the pastor of the local church, conducted the opening devotional service. Her husband, Rev. Charles C. Connor, welcomed the delegates.

Mrs. Clarence A. Burt of Springfield president of the New England Associate alliance, gave an address on the alliance. This meeting was held in connection with the general valley conference.

The Laymen's league chapters and the Ministers' association held a combined meeting late in the afternoon with R. M. Goward presiding. Matters of general interest to the churches and the league were discussed for a meeting to be held at the Rowe camp next summer.

Following supper, served by women of the local parish, there was a service of worship, led by Miss Margaret Bigelow of Greenfield. The evening session was devoted to the young people and the several talks given were designed especially for them. Rev. Earl C. Davis of Concord, N. H., gave the principal talk, speaking on the advantages of an oriental life. A short talk on the newly opened Stoneleigh-Prospect hill school for girls at Greenfield was given by John C. Lee of Greenfield.

Northfield Farms

Clayton Glazier spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Galzier at North Levitt.

Richard Pierce was a week end visitor at Ralph Leach's. His mother, Mrs. Ada Pierce, who has been visiting him, returned with him to her home here.

Scoutmaster Lewis Wood took a party of Boy Scouts, members of the local troop to the camp of Myron Warner in Bernardston, where they spent Sunday afternoon. Mr. Warner, scoutmaster of one of the Greenfield troops and invited some of the boys from here to his camp for the day.

Lyle Glazier, who is on the cross-country team at Middlebury college, was in Tarrytown, N. Y., with his team last Friday, when Middlebury defeated the St. Stephen's cross country team in the fastest race ever held on the course there.

Rev. Francis W. Pattison of East Northfield had charge of the Sunday evening meeting at Union Hall. His daughter, who was with him, played the violin during the singing and Lewis Wood played the piano. A good number was present to hear and enjoy the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark and children of Baldwinville visited Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Eva Stacy on Sunday.

Ellsworth Cota, young son of Vivian Cota, suffered a painful injury last Saturday. While riding on a bicycle he caught one foot between the spokes of the wheel, bruising it severely.

The ladies of the Benevolent society held a harvest supper in the basement dining room at Union Hall on Thursday evening. The room and tables were prettily decorated in keeping with the season and a good crowd was in attendance, parties coming from Northfield and Greenfield beside the usual large local gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brancott of Medford Hillside, are spending the week with relatives here and attended the harvest supper on Thursday evening.

FIRE AT RESIDENCE OF DR. R. G. HOLLON

At 10 o'clock last evening an alarm called the department to the residence of Dr. Hollon on Main street. The fire was confined to the chimney and was quickly extinguished with slight damages.

A. P. Fitt Elected Editor Record of Christian Work

At the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Northfield Schools held here Saturday, October 19 Mr. A. P. Fitt was elected editor of the Record of Christian Work, the monthly magazine representing Northfield interests.

Mr. Fitt is the son-in-law of D. L. Moody, founder of the Northfield activities which include, in addition to the Record of Christian Work: Northfield Seminary for girls, Mount Hermon School for boys, and the Northfield Summer Conference. The new editor has been associated with the Record for the past eleven years and served as Mr. Moody's secretary during the evangelist's later years.

The Record of Christian Work, while a monthly of general religious interest, give particular prominence to reports of the Northfield Summer Conferences.

TWO-MINUTE SERMONS

By Rev. George Henry

THINGS

Things! Houses, lands, furniture, clothes, big business! These chain a man, rob him of his freedom, trouble his slumbers. They possess him; shackle him, make him slave. Many a man starves brain and soul that he may own things, only to find himself helpless beneath the weight of what he has acquired. Great responsibility attaches to ownership. The habit of acquisition soon fastens itself upon the man whose mind is fixed on the material. The joys of life are mental and spiritual. The things worth while are not material. The life is more than meat and drink. Man's habitation is not of brick and mortar. His wealth is not gold nor silver. He may be the owner of a million dollars worth of things and life to him be worthless and he himself, worth nothing. Godliness and contentment go hand in hand. Now, don't be too quick to congratulate yourself.

In October
Suns grow meek and meek suns grow brief,
And the year smiles as it draws near its death.—Bryant.

Good nature and good sense must ever join. —Pope.

Couple Wed After 65-Year Courtship

Horsell, England.—Charles Blanchford, eighty-seven, married Miss Grace Rollands, eighty-five, after a 65 year courtship. Canon Norman Pares, who officiated at the ceremony, permitted the couple to march to their carriage from the altar to the rhythm of a jazz band that serenaded them outside the church.

Family Eats 50 Pounds of Flour at One Meal

Atlanta, Ga.—Up among the north Georgia mountain tops is a big family, one that includes a set of triplets, nine sets of twins numbers nearly four-score, and eats 50 pounds of flour at a meal. Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, deputy health commissioner, has the name of the fifty-seven-year-old grandmother on his records, he says. The woman is the mother of 18 children, including the triplets and three of the sets of twins. Her grandchildren include six sets of twins, and there are 50 of them, the oldest being fifteen.

Origin of Some Names of Garments Now Common

"Coat" comes from the word that formerly meant a frock as well, the same word being found in the Italian "cotta," a short surplice worn by the clergy. "Frock" is from a Latin word meaning a shaggy cloak. "Skirt" comes from the same word as "shirt." "Trousers" is from the French "trousser," to tuck or fasten up. "Boot" is connected with the Italian "botta," a hollow skin. "Sock" comes from "soccus," a kind of shoe originally worn by Roman comic actors, and "stocking" is from a Teutonic word, "stock," the stump of a tree—hence, a covering for the "stumps," or legs! "Jacket" is from "Jaque," a coat of mail. "Jerseys" were made from yarn spun in Jersey. "Robe" is from a Latin word, "rauba," meaning "spoils" or "plunder"—fine clothes being once a treasured item of military "loot." "Beret" is derived from "biretta," the black cap worn by clergymen and French lawyers. "Calico" came from Calicut, in India. "Serge" is from the Latin "sericea," silks, so called because they were made by the Seres, or inhabitants of China. "Muslin" is said to get its name from Mosul, Turkey, where it was first made. "Marocain" traces its origin to Maroc—French for Morocco. "Tweed" was originally "tweel," but its association with the river Tweed led to its being given (really mistakenly) its present name.

Salem Made Famous by Its Ships and Traders

During the Revolution little Salem, under leadership of Elias Hasket Derby, furnished and equipped 153 privateers, carrying 2,000 guns and manned by 6,000 men, equal to the entire population of the city, writes Walter Prichard Eaton in the Washington Star. At the end of the war, naturally, Salem found itself with a large fleet, much too large for coastwise trade, and a large staff of skippers and seamen trained to adventure and daring navigation. Besides the ships and seamen, the little town possessed, in Derby and others, owners and merchants of imagination and initiative. She was all set for great things.

And great things came with a rush. The Derbys, the Crownshields and the rest sent their ships around Good Hope, to the East Indies, and long before the East Indian traders knew the names of Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore or Boston, they knew well the name of Salem. Derby's famous ship, the Grand Turk, in 1784 was the first American merchantman to round the Cape of Good Hope.

Dinner for Four

By MARY CAREY

(Copyright.)

"JUMP!" said Timmy as the cold spray splashed his fat little chest, and "Ging!" said Timmy as he was lifted pink and dripping from his rubber tub. "Heavens!" cried Timmy's mother, "there's the phone."

"That you, dear?" Peter, on the wire, was stern and businesslike. "I'm bringing the Clarkes home to dinner tonight. Sorry I didn't know a little sooner."

Both gasped. Clarke was the chief engineer, the "boss"; she had never met him, nor his wife. "I'll do my best," she began, "but . . ."

"Good. Usual train. 'By, dear.' No details, no explanations; that was Peter for you. 'How like a man,' thought Beth. 'Delicious dinner, charming hostess. Lovely little home—boss deeply impressed: 'Never as preoccupied you, my lad; do take a vice presidency and $10,000 a year.'"

Beth grinned to herself. "I'll probably put salt in the fruitup and spill soup in his lap. No, I won't either. Peter's always teasing me about losing my head. I'll show him this time."

According to Beth's way of thinking, men guests could always be impressed by plenty of good food, women by an immaculate house. The present emergency called for both.

"House cleaned, silver and brass polished, cake made, vegetables ready"—late that afternoon Beth checked over her list on weary fingers.

Fruitup finished and put on ice, dishes laid out—5:30; strawberries hulled and sugared, cream whipped and sweetened—5:45. Then Tim had to be conducted, messy but jovial through a great bowl of oatmeal.

She was just tucking the baby into his crib when there came the unmistakable sound of rattly, wheezing Miranda—the family car, turning into the driveway.

Beth reached her bedroom closet in three leaps. Thank heavens for modern clothes that slip on over the head in a single motion! Thank heavens for shingled hair! Two minutes later she was at the door, all in white, a calm and gracefully smiling hostess. Mrs. Clarke—how nice of you; and Mr. Clarke? Peter's grin made a silent background of husbandly pride and affection.

The dinner proceeded with the smoothness of perfection. From green sherbet glasses, to the last delicious crumb of strawberry shortcake, not a dish could have looked or tasted better, and the Clarkes were outspokenly appreciative.

"My dear, you're simply marvelous," Mrs. Clarke insisted, as they lingered with real regret over their good byes. "Such a wonderful dinner; and you do it all so easily and so calmly."

Beth glowed with delight. "Oh, it wasn't one bit of trouble. It's all in being systematic, I guess." And at that, over his wife's blond head, Jim Clarke gave his hostess a deliberate and whole-hearted wink.

Fiercely attacking the great piles of dirty dishes, Beth pondered the meaning of that wink. Could it be—splash! went a spoon into the half-filled gravy boat! Beth sprang away from the splattering drops, bent over her frock to look for possible damage and groaned aloud in sudden and utter consternation. Picot-edged inner seams, stitched outlines instead of patch pockets, indentations where but tons should have been—her white crepe de chine sports frock was quite obviously wrong side out!

"Oh, Peter," she wailed, as he came bustling back from his trip to the station. "Oh, Peter, why didn't you tell me?"

"Tell you what?" He followed her tragically pointing finger and roared with laughter. "Wrong side out! That surely is a good one. I never noticed."

"But Mr. Clarke did, I'm sure. That's why he winked at me when his wife was saying I was so efficient. Oh dear, and you said he hated carelessness above all things?"

"Carelessness? Jim Clarke? Why he's the world's most absent-minded man. Once, when we were in college . . ."

Beth interrupted, ferociously calm: "Peter, what Clarke was that?"

He gazed at her blankly. "Why, Jim Clarke, of course. Down from Boston for a visit. I ran into him on Broad street. You've often heard me talk about Jim Clarke. Once when we were in college . . ."

"Peter Blythe, you never mentioned such a person in your life. You never do mention anything, 'Clarke' to me meant just one person, your boss. . ."

"You poor infant!" Peter sank onto the davenport and gathered her into his arms. "So you went to all that trouble, and thought you had made such a bit. . ."

"And then spoiled it by putting on my dress wrong side out."

"But the big joke," confessed Peter, "is that Clarke isn't my boss any more."

Pharaoh's Curse in Garage
Centuries before Socrates drank the hemlock men knew that anyone shut in a small room with a brazier of burning charcoal would be taken out dead. Even savages knew, as they know now, that because of some terrible poison—the oldest known to mankind—safe fires are to be built only at the mouths of caves and not in the unventilated depths. We now recognize the poison to be carbon monoxide, and its presence in long-unopened caves or tombs probably explains the mysterious deaths of early excavators and tomb robbers, and may be responsible, it has been suggested, for the legends of Pharaoh's curse.—D. ## ube River Deaths Bring Stricter Rules

Budapest, Hungary.—To minimize the number of deaths from drowning in the Danube, which divides Budapest into the twin cities of Buda and Pest, the municipal council has doubled the number of river guards and life-savers for the remainder of the summer and has made it illegal for any one to go on the river in a canoe without having passed a swimming and paddling test.

No More "Beef and Beer", As Athletic Records Fall

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Lawson Robertson is without question one of the greatest trainers known to the American track. He not only has coached many famous runners and weight men, but he also was a notable athlete himself, competing in the Olympics at St. Louis in 1904 at Athens in 1906, and at London in 1908. He was trainer and coach of the American Olympic teams in 1912, '20, '24, and '28. In view of the new records constantly being established, we have asked Mr. Robertson to explain the improvement in speed and stamina of the present day athlete. Surely no one is better qualified to speak authoritatively.

—EDITOR.

By Lawson Robertson

(Famous coach of the University of Pennsylvania, and trainer of American Olympic teams)

THE balanced diet now is so common in the training of the American athlete, that I doubt if many of the present day track enthusiasts ever stop to consider how comparatively new this present system really is. We take it more or less for granted that runners, jumpers and weight men naturally balance their meat and other protein foods with certain cereals and fibrous or leafy vegetables to provide the bulk so necessary for proper elimination. Whole rice, which is nearly ideal because of its smoothness and volume of bulk—spinach, lettuce, carrots and beets—all are found regularly on college training tables these days. But let's see how this differs from the way things were done only a few brief years ago.

Beef and beer—believe it or not—were the mainstays of many an athlete whose hair now is just beginning to show signs of grey. The poisons from such a diet were worked off with plenty of physics and innumerable sweats. Today, of course, we know that this is neither a normal nor a healthy way of providing necessary bodily elimination. We now promote intestinal hygiene as nature planned that we should—through eating bulky foods such as rice (the cereal form of which has been found to be most palatable and efficacious), and quantities of the coarser vegetables. With the indigestible matter furnished by such foods, sweats and physics are unnecessary for carrying off the residue and the poisons.

Only a few years ago, too, I remember that milk was banned entirely from the training table. It really is hard to imagine such a thing, isn't it? But then even the best training was sort of a hit or miss affair. We didn't realize then, as we do now, that a man really runs on his stomach.

I remember a conversation I had with Pat MacDonald some 10 or 11 years ago, when he was at his peak and was heaving the hammer and putting the shot farther than any other mortal. Pat was 44 years old then. As a kid in County Clare, Ireland, he had lived on buttermilk and potatoes. At the time he was breaking weight records right and left he was 6 feet five inches, and weighed 320 pounds. Did he eat what he liked? He did.

"Pat," I said to him the day the N.A.A.U. meet opened in Philadelphia, "I suppose you are in good shape for this meet."

"Sure," said Pat, "I had a shave and a hair-cut last night."

Pat's records have since fallen before younger and more wisely conditioned men.

It has been my theory for a long time that any person's diet—athletic or dub—should be regulated so that the intake just equals the output. Balancing our meat with plenty of fruit and cereal or vegetable cellulose—bulk, in other words—will do it, and at the same time help keep the weight normal for those whose lives are sedentary. Don't misunderstand me, however. I don't advocate putting a lot of taboos on certain foods. As a matter of fact, I let my men eat pretty much what they like, so long as they keep a proper balance of roughage in their diet.

When we consider the almost complete revolution in the dietary habits of our present day athletes, it is not hard to understand why competitors go right on breaking records. The men of today aren't the super-beings that some authorities would have us believe. They simply are keeping their running, jumping and throwing machinery in better shape through "sane stocking," and they maintain their bodies in fairly good condition the year round, all of which naturally makes the trainer's task much simpler.

Everything considered, it's my belief that a sane, balanced diet is mainly responsible for sweeping into the discard those records of the "beef and beer" days. After all, most athletes are made—not born. They win with their stomachs, and not in spite of them!

QUESTION NO. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Shall an amendment to the constitution relative to the apportionment of senatorial, representative and councillor districts, further described as follows:

The proposed amendment of the Constitution provides for the annulment of Article XXI of the Articles of Amendment of the Constitution and the substitution thereof of a new Article XXI, and for the annulment of Article XXII of the Articles of Amendment of the Constitution and the substitution thereof of a new Article XXII. The proposed amendment embodies in substance the following changes in and additions to said Articles XXI and XXII:

1. In proposed Article XXI, towns of twelve thousand inhabitants or more may be divided into representative districts. No precincts, however, in such towns may be divided. In taking the census the special enumeration of legal voters shall specify the number residing in each precinct of such towns. Under existing Amendment XXI no town may be divided and no specification of the number of voters in a precinct is required.

2. The division of a county into representative districts and the apportionment of representatives to districts therein is to be made by "The county commissioners or other body acting as such or, in lieu thereof, such board of special commissioners in each county as may for that purpose be provided by law." Under Article XXI as it now stands the division and apportionment is made by "The mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, the county commissioners of other counties than Suffolk—or in lieu of the mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, or of the county commissioners in each county other than Suffolk, such board of special commissioners, each county to be elected by the people of the county, or of the towns therein, as may for that purpose be provided by law." The time for assembling of such commissioners, board or body for the purpose of making such division and apportionment is also changed, from the first Tuesday of August next after each assignment by the Legislature of the number of representatives to each county, to a time within thirty days after certification by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to such commissioners, board or body of the number so assigned, or within such other period as the General Court may by law provide.

3. Under the proposed Articles, each special enumeration shall be the basis for determining the districts, senatorial, representative and councillor, for the ten-year period beginning in the fourth January following said special enumeration and the present division of districts is to remain in effect until January, 1939. Under the existing amendments the ten-year period is the period between the taking of each census. Thus, the next redistricting based upon the next census in 1935 would, under the proposed Articles, affect those elected in 1938 to hold office beginning in January, 1939, instead of affecting those elected in 1936 to hold office beginning in January, 1937. Under existing amendments representation of newly created districts begins in January of the second year after each ten-year census, whereas under the proposed article it would begin in January of the fourth year thereafter. The number of representatives (240), senators (40), and councillors (8) is not changed.

4. The Legislature may limit the time within which a division of representative, councillor or senatorial districts may be questioned by judicial proceedings. The existing amendments contain no provision that itself limits or authorizes the Legislature to limit such time.

Proved Sires Program Introduced At M. A. C.

A committee of leading Massachusetts cattle breeders, representing the four leading breeds, and members of the Massachusetts Agricultural College staff met at the college in Amherst October 6, and formulated what is hoped will be one of the most important movements ever started in Massachusetts for the improvement of dairy herds.

The program introduced at this meeting, according to C. J. Fawcett, extension specialist in animal husbandry from the college, is to be known as the Massachusetts Proved Sires Program, with members being designated as subscribers. It is the plan that the movement be introduced by the extension service of the college and conducted through this organization until the membership becomes large enough to enable the breeders to establish an association and to undertake their own problems and administration.

The major objects of the association, as outlined by Mr. Fawcett, are to find and extend the use of dairy sires which transmit high production to their daughters, and of course to prevent the use of any sires which transmit low production.

The committee which introduced the program was composed of John Ellis of Lee, Holstein breeder; J. R. Sibley of Spencer, Jersey breeder; E. Wigglesworth of Topsfield, Guernsey breeder; W. H. Atkinson of Westfield, Ayrshire breeder; Allen Grissie of Springfield, New England field secretary for the Holstein-Friesian Association; George Story, county agent of Worcester County; W. A. Munson, director of the extension service, M. A. C.; S. R. Parker, state leader of agricultural agents, M. A. C.; V. A. Rice, head of the animal husbandry department, M. A. C., and Mr. Fawcett.

Uses Earth as Base for Face Powder

London, England.—A new substance for face powder is claimed to have been discovered by N. Ingram Hendey, young retail chemist, who says the earth substance hitherto used only for chemical filtration purposes makes a more ideal powder than the present ones which have rice and starch powder as their base. Hendey says the deposits which are a peaty substance known as Dintomaceous earth, are found only near water (either salt or fresh), and that when dry they form a very light and porous powder which is ideal for toilet use.

Soldiers Protest Pay to Remarried Women

Paris.—At a turbulent meeting of the National Federation of Ex-Soldiers it was brought out that while many of the French ex-soldiers have hardly any means of subsistence there are in France 350,000 war widows who, although they have remarried, are still drawing pensions.

The ex-soldiers hold that a war widow who has remarried might well expect her husband and not the state to provide for her.

SEA FOODS GO INLAND

WHEN far inland, on mountain or plain, you open a can of your favorite fish—clams or shrimp, mackerel or cod, or any other of the vast variety now packed—perhaps you wonder how these denizens of the sea retain their fresh-caught flavor, so reminiscent of salt air and tide.

Does it ever occur to you, as you go about your inland business that thousands of fishermen spend their lives along the coast earning their livelihood in as picturesque and adventurous a manner as the fisher-folk of the sea stories that thrilled your youth while they pull in the finest fish from the sea for inland appetites, and that these are clapped into cans and hermetically sealed faster than they could be cooked and served to you at the table?

The Popular Clam

At any seaside resort, one finds during the summer season, myriads of visitors reveling in clams—steamed clams, clam broth, clams on the half-shell, clam chowder, etc. Clams that are just as excellent as those served at seaside stalls are being dug for the canneries, so that enthusiasts may eat them all year round. The clam beds are miles from the nearest village, in clean, fine white sand. Great containers of these fresh dug, fresh shelled juicy clams become immaculately clean in vast washing machines where they are cleaned in their own liquor, thus retaining all of the clam strength. And if clam chowder happens to be your favorite clam dish, you will also be interested to know that the vegetables for canned clam chowder are all pared and cubed by machinery and only the finest pork and seasonings added.

More salmon is canned than any other kind of fish. Much has already been told of the romance of salmon fishing—the lives and fortunes that are risked annually to capture the mysterious and adventurous wanderer who has such a strong instinct to return to his birthplace at spawning season that he leaps cataracts in the cold northern streams and braves great hazards to effect that purpose. And of how salmon fleets carrying complete canneries are located out in the mouths of rivers whence the salmon starts his journey inland, so that the fish may be caught at the moment when it is sleekest and fittest.

Sardines come second to salmon in popularity, and are sometimes called a canner's invention because they are really small herring and similar fish until they enter the can and become "sardines." Tuna fish, another canner's invention, was formerly considered inedible until one year when sardines were scarce, canners discovered that, by cooking tuna, the oil could be removed by steam and when fine salad oil was used to replace the natural oil it became as tender and appetizing as the breast of chicken.

Caviar is the roe of various species of sturgeon which inhabit the waters of the Atlantic Ocean and the waters along the shores of Russia, but it is in Russia where the art of preparing roe is one of the oldest industries. In past ages caviar was eaten only by the highest nobility and the wealthy classes, but its large production in recent years has brought it within the reach of all.

Canned Fish Cuts Prices

With the advent of fish in cans, this healthful food has changed from a one-day-a-week affair to an everyday food—and fishermen can now sell their products more cheaply because they know there is a steady market. Formerly they had to obtain from one day's sales sufficient profit to cover six days' expenses.

Up in Gloucester, where fishermen go out deep-sea fishing and where the quest of the sacred cod has been handed down from father to son from the time when the shores of Cape Cod were only straggling fishing villages, the wives of the fishermen pride themselves on preparing excellent sea food. The following recipe smacks strongly of Gloucester:

Rice Mold and Shrimp Sauce: Boil one cup of rice until tender. Drain two tablespoons of butter, two slightly-beaten eggs and two tablespoons of evaporated milk. Place into a buttered mold, set in a pan of hot water and bake until firm for about twenty to thirty minutes. Meanwhile sauté two tablespoons of chopped onion and two tablespoons of chopped green pepper in two tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour, stir smooth; then add one No. 2 can of tomatoes slowly, stirring constantly. Add one 5-ounce can of shrimps, one-fourth cup of sliced ripe olives and salt and pepper to taste. Unmold the rice and pour over tomato and shrimp sauce. This serves six persons.

A Well Kept Cemetery

A drive through the country will reveal that many towns neglect their cemeteries. They are allowed to grow up in weeds and tall and tangled grass and look more like a wilderness than the last resting place of the loved ones of the community.

The practice is growing among the cities of this country to provide for perpetual care of cemetery lots. This is done by securing from each lot owner an amount which when invested in some safe security will provide a perpetual care fund sufficient to employ a full time care taker.

We know of a cemetery association in a small, middle, west town which has been following this practice for some years. Their cemetery is the show place of the country for miles around. The grass is kept mowed, the drives and walks are graveled, a beautiful chapel has been built, much beautiful shrubbery set out and a landscape architect employed to plot the grounds and lay out a small artificial lake. All of this is paid for out of the interest derived from interest on investments made by the association.

So great is the community pride in the cemetery that on numerous occasions the association has been made the beneficiary of liberal amounts in the wills of those who desire to leave a lasting and useful monument to the community in which they lived.

The plan works out in a splendid way and instead of a careless, indifferent kept cemetery results in a beautiful, well kept burial spot which is a lasting monument to those who have lived and wrought in the community and have gone on.

Wire Cable With "Teeth" of Sand Cuts Out Slate

A saw with teeth of sand is used to saw out large blocks in the slate beds of Pennsylvania.

This ingenious device consists of a three-strand wire cable, which is built into an endless belt. The cable is guided by orienting pulleys, which adjust themselves to the face to be sawed. As it arrives at the point to be cut, sand is spilled over the cable by means of a stream of water, the particles of sand lodging in the twists of the cable.

The cable drags the sand, under considerable pressure and at high speed, against the bed of the slate and rapidly cuts its way through, the cutting being a trifle larger than the diameter of the cable.

The savings effected by this means run into a figure as much as 50 per cent of the usual amount of waste.

Experimenting is going on to work out a method of cutting the slate into the size of sheets to be shipped out by piling several slabs on top of each other and cutting them all at once with the wire saw.

MAKE THIS FROCK FOR ABOUT $6.93

New afternoon frocks with a draped neckline are smart for early autumn days. And this one, though easy and economical to make, is expensive. Size 16 requires:

4 1/2 yards 39-inch flat crepe at $1.40 .....$6.13
Findings ..... .30
Pictorial Pattern ..... .50
Totalling about.....$6.93

The draped cowl neckline, a feature of the Paris openings, is as flattering as it is smart. And it is very prettily expressed in this frock, with its elbow-length cape that is caught at the natural waistline by the seam that marks the top of the snug, tucked-hip-yoke. Note, too, the accessories shown here.

Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5399. Sizes 14 to 42. 50 cents

Cattle Differentiation

The Department of Agriculture says that it understands that in Holland there have been for many years both red-and-white and black-and-white Holstein-Friesians. A great many of the breed in this country carry recessive hereditary factors determining red color. Consequently, not infrequently red-and-white calves will be secured from registered black-and-white parents. The Holstein-Friesian association, however, will not register the red-and-white offspring in this country even though they come from registered Holstein-Friesian parents.—Washington Star.

THE SLEEVES ARE IT

Sleeves tell the story of your new frock. Are they long—then they have some individual treatment between the wrist and elbow. Are they short—then they may very likely disappear completely to be replaced by a capelet that flutters softly over the shoulders in delightfully youthful effect.

The first model features three-quarter sleeves lengthened with ruffled wristlets, and a circular flounce is applied in slightly spiral effect. The capelet frock is tucked across the front at the waistline, and accents the high waist with a bow that is repeated at the throat. The skirt dips at back.

First Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5211. Sizes 14 to 42, 55 cents.
Second Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5220. Sizes 14 to 42, 50 cents.

Pretty Roofs in Norway

Perhaps the roof over one's head has something to do with the happiness and love in the home beneath it. The American shingles were appropriate for the pioneer, the English slates practical, the tiles of Latin countries cool and picturesque, but even better is the old straw thatch laid on sometimes to a depth of two feet. However, of homes in country places Norway has the loveliest roofs of all. Sod is used for a thatch there, and after a season or two the entire house-top is a meadow of grass and wild flowers, on which young goats may often be seen feeding, and where butterflies and honey-bees always hover.

Actors Without Jealousy

The performers in the Oberammergau number about 700 persons, and it is said to be the only band of its kind where there is no professional jealousy and no exhibitions of artistic temperament. The actors receive only a very small sum for their efforts, the main proceeds going to charity. And as taking a part in the play is looked upon as an act of natural devotion, none of the 700 tries in the slightest way to outshine the rest.

Valuable Rubber Tree
The latex of Euphorbia intisy, which flows from any cut in the plant, coagulates in the air without further treatment. The bands of rubber thus formed are of very high quality. This shrub or small tree is native to Madagascar and with its discovery in 1891 and the following commercial exploitation the plant has been almost exterminated. The United States Department of Agriculture has secured specimens and is experimenting with them in a hope of adapting this remarkable rubber tree to growth in this country.

Personal Mention

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fowler were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mulroney and two sons of Greenfield, Mass., also Mrs. Alice Lun-berg and daughter of Florence, Mass.

Elaine Kendrick, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Fred Kendrick is quite ill.
There was a birthday party given Miss Marjorie Fowler on her 15th birthday on Oct. 14 at 7 o'clock p. m. at her home on Glen street. There were sixteen of her class mates of the high school of Hinsdale who came and a very pleasant evening was spent. Cake, punch, waffles and fudge were served. She also had a very pretty birthday cake with 15 candles.
She received many very nice gifts.

Mrs. Herbert K. Newell, who has been in the Elliott Community hospital at Keene several weeks, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Butler of Beach-mont, Mass., have been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
George A. Robertson.

Several members from the local Golden Rule lodge of Masons, attended the annual lodge of instruction of the third Masonic district at Keene, Thursday afternoon and evening. The local members exemplified the Master Mason degree.

Rev. Bruvold will speak on "Anarchism" Sunday evening at the Methdist church. Bimonthly events are being planned. A boy scout group is also being organized.

Miss Rachel Brown entertained 11 little friends Monday afternoon in honor of her eight birthday. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

A daughter was born Oct. 7 to Frank and Lois (Packard) Cousins of this town.

A Good Salad Is Known By the Company It Keeps

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

It has been said that "a good salad is known by the company it keeps." And certainly, a well-flavored biscuit or crisp cookie makes even the simplest salad seem more delicious.

While a wide variety of sandwiches and wafers may be served with salads, these necessary accompaniments may be divided into two main groups: (1) snappy cheese rolls, hot biscuits, and crackers with savory spreads to serve with substantial meat, fish and vegetable salads; and (2) dainty little cookies or open sandwiches, which are more appropriate with the lighter fruit salads for luncheon or tea.

Try some of these suggestions the next time you serve a salad. Almost everyone is sure to like them:

TO SERVE WITH MEAT, FISH, OR VEGETABLE SALADS:

- Hot Cheese Wafers: Spread long narrow wafers with butter, then with a mixture of  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup grated American Cheese, 1 tablespoon India Relish, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon Prepared Mustard. Sprinkle with paprika and brown delicately under the flame of a broiler. Serve on a plate with a hot roll cover.
- Hot Cheese Toast: Spread slices of toast with mustard butter, made by creaming together 4 tablespoons butter and 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard. Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika, and place in a hot oven or under a broiler until the cheese is melted.
- Savory Biscuit: Prepare baking powder biscuit dough and pat half of it  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch thick, on a lightly floured board. Shape with a round cutter and spread each biscuit with a mixture of 1 cup cold cooked ham, chopped,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, chopped,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon Prepared Mustard and 1 tablespoon Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. After spreading this mixture on the biscuit, pat out to the original thickness. Cut the other half of the dough and place another biscuit on top of each one spread with the filling.

Bake in a moderately hot oven for 15 minutes, and serve hot.

- Toasted Cheese Rolls: Grate 1 cup American Cheese, and add 1 tablespoon minced onion, 6 Spanish Queen Olives, chopped, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce and 4 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Cut thin slices of bread and trim the crusts. Spread thinly with the cheese filling, and roll. Let stand in the refrigerator for at least an hour, then at serving time, toast and serve hot.

TO SERVE WITH FRUIT SALADS:

- Celery, Nut and Mayonnaise Sandwiches: Mix  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup chopped nut meats with  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup minced celery, and moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Spread between thin slices of buttered bread and cut into dainty shapes.
- Open Apple Butter and Nut Sandwiches: Cut thin slices of bread into rounds or squares. Spread thinly with butter, then with Pure Apple Butter. In the center of each sandwich place half an English Walnut or Pecan, and make a border of chopped nuts around the sandwich.
- Rice Flake Drop Cookies: Cream together  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter, 1 cup sugar and 2 eggs, well beaten. Sift 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt, and add to creamed mixture alternately with 4 tablespoons milk. Then add 1 cup floured raisins, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups Rice Flakes, 1 cup nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet, and bake for 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

Leisure time is the lot of this young wife. Oh yes, dinner will be served on time—piping hot—brown roasted and done to a turn.

You see our young wife has placed all the vegetables and a roast in the electric oven. She has set the automatic time controls to turn on the heat at 3:30 and to shut off at 5:45.
So at the usual time dinner will be served perfectly cooked.
And with it all our young wife has enjoyed herself all the afternoon.

Now this is being done everywhere, right now, today.

You, too, may have this comfort, convenience and leisure

Ben Franklin's Lightning Rod Still Good After 150 Years

Benjamin Franklin, recognized father of the lightning rod, was appointed in 1769 by the Royal Society of London, at the request of King George III, to provide St. Paul's Cathedral with proper protection against lightning. The architect of this famous church was the great Sir Christopher Wren, who lived to see it completed in 1710. Franklin devised a system of lightning protection which made use of the metal parts of the building itself as conductors; and wherever there was a break, he had it bridged over with specially designed heavy iron bars. Though more than a hundred and fifty years old, those bars of honest iron are still sound and strong to this day. They were ordered replaced a few years ago, and when taken out were found as good as new—practically in the same condition as ever. This information is given on the authority of Alfred Hands, M. I. E. E., F. R. Met. S., of J. H. Gray & Son, manufacturers and erectors of lightning conductors, London, England. The rods, when analysed, were found to be typical of good wrought iron. Like all true wrought iron it was thoroughly impregnated with tiny slag fibres, but was otherwise composed of a metal of high purity. Rust had attacked it upon the surface, but had not penetrated deeply at any spot, though for 158 years the bars were exposed to the fogs and damps of London. So while copper may make more efficient lightning rods, there was no occasion to seek more durable ones.

Sand Frequently a Trap for Traveling Snakes

Snakes, when not in a hurry, can climb a leaning tree or the slippery slope of a wet rock. They are brisk travelers on the levels, and can turn on an extraordinary speed when in chase or flight they alight downhill. But any wide stretch of loose sand or dust pulls them up. Between the scrubs of Poole's point and the mangroves of Tibbo beach, on the N. & W. south coast, lies an expanse of drifting powdery sand, writes a Sydney Bulletin contributor. Sometimes a snake trying to cross from one cover to the other gets stranded. As the crawler advances upon the ashlike surface he pushes forward a wave of sand with every sinuous heave. Sickening of the heavy going, he turns back, scooping out of the yielding sand a basin, the rim of which affords no scale hold. He squirms frenziedly to escape but only deepens the depression. In the end he dies of exhaustion or is scooped up by a swamp hawk or a kookaburra.
